

Endo Health Solutions Announces Departure Of Chief Scientific Officer

February 27, 2014

/PRNewswire/ -- Endo Health Solutions Inc. (Nasdaq: ENDP) today announced that Ivan P. Gergel, executive vice president research & development and chief scientific officer, will be leaving the Company. Dr. Gergel will continue in his current role until March 31, 2014.

MALVERN, Pa., Feb 27, 2013 Rajiv De Silva, president and chief executive officer of Endo, said, "I want to thank Ivan for his dedicated service and significant contributions to our R&D organization over the past 6 years. During Ivan's tenure with Endo he has been responsible for building a focused approach to drug development that ultimately led to multiple product approvals. Ivan has also built a strong foundation of capabilities and processes in R&D that will allow us to continue to focus on drug development as an organic growth driver for our business. As a result of our planned re-domicile to Ireland, we have made the decision to move the lead role for R&D to our global headquarters in Dublin, and consequently, Ivan has chosen to evaluate opportunities outside of Endo. We expect a smooth transition and are confident in the plans we are putting in place to position Endo for future shareholder value creation."

Ivan Gergel said, "I am very pleased with the accomplishments we have made at Endo over the past 6 years as the chief scientific officer. I am very proud to have built a strong R&D team, developed a more innovative, nimble and cost-effective approach to drug development as well as the success we had in building our virtual drug discovery platform. During my tenure, we were able to bring multiple new products to market, progress two promising late stage programs with AVEED™ and BEMA Buprenorphine and enhance the collaboration efforts with our commercial teams in order to build and execute innovative life cycle management programs. I am looking forward to my next opportunity and wish Endo the best in its next phase of growth."
